What Makes a Nation Great?

[The following extract is not, as the reader might at first suppose, taken from a sermon delivered by some prophetic Christian minister, but from a disciple of Confucius, Wu Tingfang, LL.D., late Chinese Minister to the United States of America. It is taken from his recent volume "America Through the Spectacles of an Oriental Diplomat." (Frederick A. Stokes Company, New York.)]

Within the last few years it has been the policy of many of the nations to increase the army and to build as many Dreadnaughts and super-Dreadnaughts as possible. Many statesmen have been infected by this Dreadnaught fever. Their policy seems to be based on the idea that the safety of a nation depends on the number of its battleships. Even peaceful and moderate men are carried away by this hobby, and support it. It is forgotten that great changes have taken place during the last twenty or thirty years; that a nation can now be attacked by means quite beyond the use of Dreadnaughts. The enormous sums spent on these frightful monsters, if applied to more worthy objects, would have a greater effect in preserving the nations' heritages than anything these monstrosities can do.

The nation which has a large army and a strong navy may be called powerful, but it cannot be considered great without other good requisites. I consider a nation as great when she is peacefully, justly, and humanely governed, and when she possesses a large number of benevolent and good men who have a voice in the administration. The greater the number of good men that a nation possesses the greater she becomes. America is known to have a large number of such men and women, men and women who devote their time and money to preaching peace among the nations. Mr. Andrew Carnegie is worth a hundred Dreadnaughts. He and others like him are the chief factor in safeguarding the interests and welfare of America. The territory of the United States is separated from Europe and other countries by vast oceans; so that it would be difficult, if not impossible, for a foe to successfully attack any portion of that country. But who wishes to attack her? She has scarcely an enemy. No country is invaded by another without cause, and as the United States is in friendly relations with all the Powers, there is no reason to fear foreign invasion. Even should a foreign power successfully attack her and usurp a portion of her territories, a supposition which is most improbable, would the enemy be able to hold what he seized? History shows that no conquered country has ever been successfully and permanently kept without the people's consent, and there is not the least chance that the Americans will ever consent to the rule of a foreign government.

It is to be hoped that the United States will not follow the example of other nations and unduly increase her armaments, but that she will take the lead in the universal peace movement and show the world that a great power can exist and maintain her position without force of arms. I am aware that general disarmament is not popular among statesmen, that it has been denounced by an eminent authority as a "will-o'-the-wisp," that arbitration has been styled a "jack-o'-lantern," but this is not the first time a good and workable scheme has been branded with opprobrious names. The abolition of slavery was at one time considered to be an insane man's dream; now all people believe in it. Will the twentieth century witness the collapse of our present civilization?

Why are the world's armaments constantly increasing? To my mind it is due to two causes, one of which is mistrust. One nation begins to build Dreadnaughts, another does the same through fear and mistrust. The second cause is that it is the fashion of some nations to follow the example of others that they may preserve their position as great naval powers. But it is unnecessary for the United States to show such mistrust or to follow such fashion. She should, rather, as becomes a great and powerful nation, take an independent course of her own. If she sets the example other nations in due time will follow her. The peace of the world will be more surely guarded, and America will win the approbation, the respect, and the gratitude of all peace-loving people.

The books herein presented are helpful and constructive. They will be a means of aiding you in solving the complex problems of your everyday life. Every worth while book makes a friend of its reader. We hope through these books to make a friend of you and to bring you the real joy of knowledge. All orders are to be sent to the name and address below. Checks and money orders are to be made payable to the "Rosicrucian Supply Bureau."

The World's Most Disputed Doctrine

MANSIONS OF THE SOUL

By H. SPENCER LEWIS, Ph. D.

REINCARNATION! The world's greatest disputed doctrine. The belief in reincarnation has had millions of intelligent, learned, and tolerant followers throughout the ages. Ringing through the minds and hearts of students, mystics, and thinkers, have always been the words: "Why Are We Here?" Reincarnation has been criticized by some as conflicting with sacred literature and without verification. This book reveals, however, in an astounding manner the many facts to support reincarnation. Quotations from eminent authorities, from Biblical and Sacred works substantiate reincarnation. This volume PROVES reincarnation. It places it high above mere speculation. This book is without exaggeration the most complete, inspiring, enlightening book ever written on this subject. It is not a fiction story but a step by step revelation of profound mystical laws. Look at some of these fascinating, intriguing subjects:

The Cosmic Conception.
Does Personality Survive Transition?
Heredity and Inheritance.
Karma and Personal Evolution.
Religion and Biblical View-points.
Christian References.
Between Incarnations.
Souls of Animals and the "Unborn."
Recollections of the Past.

THIS is one of the rarest, Oriental, mystery books known. It is translated by special permission of Grand Lama and Disciples of the Sacred College in the Grand Temple in Tibet.

The book deals with man's passions, loves, desires, weaknesses, sins, strengths, fortitudes, ambitions, and hopes. All are treated in detail with illuminating simplicity. —The Plan of Your Life—

SELF MASTERY AND FATE WITH THE CYCLES OF LIFE

By H. Spencer Lewis, Ph. D.

THIS BOOK is entirely different from any ever issued in America dealing with the secret periods in the life of each man and woman wherein the Cosmic forces affect our daily affairs.

The book reveals how we may take advantage of certain periods to bring success, happiness, health, and prosperity into our lives, and it likewise points out those periods which are not favorable for many of the things we try to accomplish. It does not deal with astrology or any system of fortune telling, but presents a system long used by the Master Mystics in oriental lands and which is strictly scientific and demonstrable. One reading of the book with its charts and tables will enable the reader to see the course of his life at a glance. It helps everyone to eliminate "chance" and "luck," to cast aside "fate" and replace these with Self Mastery.

A Daily Guide

Here is a book you will use weekly to guide your affairs throughout years. There is no magic in its system, but it opens a vista of the cycle of the life of each being in a remarkable manner.

Well printed, bound in silk cloth and stamped in gold to match other volumes of the Rosicrucian Library. Price, postage paid, $2.00.

LEMURIA—
The Lost Continent of the Pacific

By WISHAR CERVE

BENEATH the rolling, restless seas lie the mysteries of forgotten civilizations. Swept by the tides, half buried in the sands, worn away by terrific pressure are the remnants of a culture little known to our age of today. Where the mighty Pacific now rolls in a majestic sweep of thousands of miles, there was once a vast continent. This land was known as Lemuria, and its people as Lemurians.

We pride ourselves upon the inventions, conveniences, and developments of today. We call them modern, but these ancients and long-forgotten people excelled us. Things we speak of as future possibilities, they knew as everyday realities. Science has gradually pieced together the evidences of this last race, and in this book you will find the most astounding, enthralling chapters you have ever read. How these people came to be swept from the face of the earth, except for survivors who have living descendants today, is explained. Illustrations and explanations of their mystic symbols, maps of the continent, and many ancient truths and laws are contained in this unusual book.

If you are a lover of mystery, of the unknown, the weird—read this book—remember, however, this book is not fiction, but based on facts, the result of extensive research. Does civilization reach a certain height, and then retrograde? Is the culture and progress of mankind in cycles, reaching certain peaks, and then returns to start over again? These questions and many more are answered in this intriguing volume. Read of the living descendants of these people, whose expansive nation now lies at the bottom of the Pacific. In the minds of these descendants is the knowledge of the principles which in by-gone centuries made their forebearers builders of an astounding civilization.

The book, "Lemuria, the Lost Continent of the Pacific," is beautifully bound, well printed, and contains many, many illustrations. It is economically priced at $2.20 postpaid.

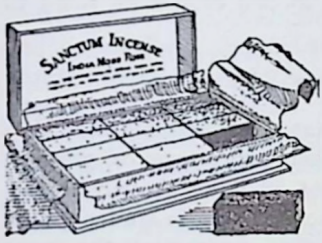
IN MANY ceremonies and initiations, which you have in your studies, the apron is referred to. The placing of the apron on your person represents your willingness to serve, and the readiness to do any task for the good purposes and principles of Rosicrucianism. Many fraternal organizations have adopted a similar symbol —the wearing of the fraternal apron. These aprons are triangular in shape, beautifully made of linen, faced with a band of red linen, and trimmed with a gold colored cross, with a red rose in its center, also made of linen. They are intended for the students at home to use during their convocations, designating their preparation for conducting their study. They are priced, postage prepaid by us, at $1.35 each.

ROSICRUCIAN INCENSE

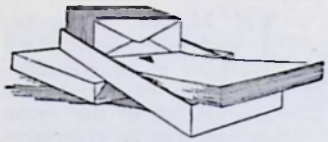
(India Moss Rose—an Oriental Flower)



Long Burning Cubes

MANY members find it difficult to secure a satisfactory incense. Incense that may be purchased is not always entirely satisfactory for simple experiments at home. As perhaps you have discovered, it is sometimes necessary to open the windows and doors for ventilation purposes while using some incense. We have a special incense made under our direction, and ordered after having been tried at Headquarters; it is most conducive to the conditions under which our members study. $.65 for a box consisting of twelve large cubes, postage prepaid by us.

ROSICRUCIAN STATIONERY



Attractive—
Serviceable—
Practical—

WE HAVE arranged with a large stationery house to supply us with boxes of fine stationery, consisting of twenty-four sheets, and twenty-four envelopes of attractive blue, broadcloth linen. Each sheet has a symbolic emblem with the words "AMORC, Rosicrucian Order" printed upon it in artistic Old English type. These boxes will be sent to our members postage prepaid, for $1.25 a box. The stationery is ideal for personal use and similar to the latest club or fraternal stationery.

ATTRACTIVE ROSICRUCIAN WALL AND CREED CARDS

THERE are obtainable from the Rosicrucian Supply Bureau, two attractive wall cards. One is entitled "Confessions to Maat." "Maat" is the Egyptian word for "truth." The card is a very beautiful thing, 11 x 14 inches in size, in several colors and gold. The other card, of equal size, is entitled "The Rosicrucian Creed" and it sets forth the definite creed of what the Rosicrucians know through their studies and teachings, substitutes the word "know" for "believe" which is particularly impressive in contrast with the creeds of other faiths and philosophies. Either one of these cards is a useful decoration, inspiring in its nature, and you will find it an excellent addition to your sanctum or study. Note above illustration. Either may be had for 35c, postage prepaid by us.

THE ART of each century represents the culture, thought and advancement of the people. It depicts their religious, political and social ideals. These fascinating art prints are of mystical subjects—photographic prints of paintings by old masters, actual photographs of ancient temples, mystic shrines, which are loved by the students of mysticism and occultism. These artistic photographic prints are especially prepared for framing. They are reproduced on dove-finished enamel paper, known as "Silkote" with a wide margin which enhances their appearance, separately contained in a folder. What a treasure these make when framed, each with its printed title—also, what a wonderful gift they make! This is the best offer ever made of mystical art prints—take advantage of it. History

Edmonds was 25 years old before much progress was made in a cultural way. In 1884, the newly platted town received its name; organized the school district; and bragged of a post office in founder George Brackett's home after a battle over obtaining the U. S. Government authorization. In those earliest days, Edmonds was a flourishing timber and sawmill town with as many as twelve to fifteen mills spread out along the waterfront, and, there was little concern over culture.

Due to a lack of highways and byways, most of the wants of the frontier communities were taken care of by Puget Sound ships that sailed up and down the Sound. One of these services was from the Washington State Traveling Library that began leaving books in Edmonds in 1901. Frances A. Stifer was the librarian. A change of books took place every three months, until the formation of the Public Library Association of Edmonds, on July 29, 1907.

The first Edmonds Library was furnished through donations from the local citizens and the Book and Thimble Club, a leading woman's organization which "combined literary inclinations with industry." They helped raise the money to maintain the library in two rooms on the second floor of the old State Bank Building at 4th and Main.

The Rev. Mr. John Lockwood, a retired Congregational minister, became the first salaried librarian in 1908. Through his efforts, a gift of $5,000 to the City of Edmonds from Andrew Carnegie was obtained toward a new library building. On February 27, 1911, the first Edmonds Public Library Building was opened, and by agreement, the city operated the library. Many fine librarians along with dedicated Library Board members have kept library standards high in Edmonds.

Other librarians have been the Mesdames W. L. Richardson - 1913 - 16, Elsie Venn - 1916-17, D. B. Burbank - 1917-18, S. G. Jones - 1918-23, Clara Wilson - 1923-35, L. R. Moses - 1935-

43, D. E. Clark - 1943-45, A. M. Williams - 1945-49, Ida Westover - 1949, Ruth Ann Shields - 1950-51, Harriet Leitch - 1952-54, and Veta DeMunbrun - 1954 to date.

In 1946, the Edmonds Library affiliated with the Snohomish County Library, at which time the library had 650 patrons with an annual book circulation of 10,160. Today, in cooperation with the Regional Library, Edmonds boasts of 8,075 patrons with an annual circulation of 120,580 books.

And behold! Your newest library building!

To the Librarians:-

Here is a list with brief reviews of the new books being sent to your International Mind Alcove. They are timely and full of life and interest and deal with countries and events that are now in the forefront of world news. They will, we hope, therefore, be a welcome addition to your collection and throw new light upon problems which must be solved if peace is to follow this time of suffering and war.

BY PAN AMERICAN HIGHWAY THROUGH SOUTH AMERICA, Herbert C. Lanks - D. Appleton-Century Company 1942 $5.00

The long and eventful trip described in these pages could only have been undertaken by an adventurous person such as the author of this book proves himself to be. In a sense the title is misleading for we associate the name "Pan American Highway" with the long winding road which is eventually to lead without a break along the western coast of the Americas. The author, however, followed not only those parts of the official highway already constructed, but made literally a "round-trip", coming north from Patagonia up the eastern side of South America to Rio. He also made long detours, crossing and recrossing the Andes and visiting the capital of every South American republic except Paraguay. The account of such a trip inevitably includes glimpses of the land and peoples, of unusual experiences and even encounters with "the law". The truly superb illustrations point up the story of this lively and entertaining tale.

GRANDMOTHER DRIVES SOUTH, Constance J. Henley - G.P. Putnam's Sons 1943 $3.50

It is not often in an Alcove sending that one book supplements another so perfectly as does this one the book reviewed above. A long sea voyage brings the author and her companion to Rio de Janeiro at which point Mr. Lanks bade us farewell in his book. The travelers then go south by motor along much the same route we followed north with Mr. Lanks. But the maps set out the respective itineraries so there is no need to describe them here. The interest centers around the fact that each author gives views of life in Latin America which are peculiarly his and her own, telling of the countries, their cities and countryside and the people who live in them. No two persons ever have the same experiences or react in the same way to similar situations and it is because of this that these two books make such an excellent contrast. Whoever reads one will wish to read the other.

THEY SENT ME TO ICELAND, Jane Goodell - Ives Washburn, Inc. 1943 $2.75

This is a book worth reading no matter what one's association with Iceland may be. The author was a member of the first Red Cross unit to be sent overseas whose mission was to establish recreation centers in Iceland. She tells the facts, setting forth without reservation, the difficulties and hardships faced by American troops in occupation, but in such a buoyant hardy spirit that it can bring real solace to anyone who personally longs for news from soldiers stationed there. The amusing accounts of what under other circumstances might seem trivial events in no way obscure the evidence of the courage and determination which prevails throughout the service and to read the record of every day life on this lonely outpost is a rewarding experience. This book was purchased for distribution to the Alcoves before it had received such wide publicity as it now has, but it is hoped that this will only add to its popularity.

THE PEOPLES' PEACE, Representatives of the United Nations - G.W. Stewart, Inc. 1943 $2.50

We cannot escape even if we would the discussion of the future peace which is absorbing not only the people of our own country, but of all the United Nations to say nothing of the struggling suffering peoples of the occupied countries. We need, therefore, reliable information as to the points of view of the leaders among the Allies and this book supplies a collection of the actual texts of speeches and agreements made by and between such leaders. It is in fact an attempt, "to bring the reader to a discussion table where his fellow allies say what they think we are all fighting for, what we want to bring about and why we must cooperate for peace as for war." (p.5) It will hold the interest if read straight through, but will also serve as an invaluable source for future reference.

With best wishes from Miss Wallace and myself, I am

Sincerely yours,

Mary Hemmeway Jones

Division Assistant.

35,000 DAYS IN TEXAS. A History of The Dallas News and Its Forbears.

[7-25-38] Cloth xviii-337 pp. Illus. 6½ x 9½" $2.50a

Synopsis: The News of Dallas, founded in 1842, while Texas was a Republic, has played a major part in the transformation of a neglected province of New Spain into a wealthy American State of more than 6,000,000 people. In this book, for the first time, use has been made of the continuous files of The News, the largest single source of contemporary data on the evolution of Texas. Here are the very temper and spirit of the times, the clash of partisans, the explosive mixture of ideas on one of the last frontiers, and above all, the passionate response of the newspaper to most of the great issues and agitations of the past hundred years.

Author: Of "Joe Bailey, The Last Democrat," and member of the editorial staff of The Dallas News since 1925.

Appeal: To students of American history; to newspapermen, as well as the general public.

CONTENTS: Birth of "The Old Lady by the Sea"; Texas Enters the Union; General Houston and "The Texas Almanac"; War, Fire and Straw Paper; Reconstruction; Toward "The Dallas News"; Birth of "The Dallas Morning News"; The Two Fairs Imbroglio; "This Age of Change"; The Farmers' Revolt; Politics and Panic; Sound Money and Sounder Morals; New World Vision; Farewell to Politics; etc.

NATURE OF VARIABLE STARS, THE.

[1-18-38] Cloth x-134 pp. 5⅝ x 8¼" $2.00a

Synopsis: This book offers a careful consideration of our present knowledge of variable stars, under such headings as: how variables are discovered and catalogued; how their light changes; what the spectroscope shows of their physical and chemical composition; how they move about our galaxy; what they tell us concerning stellar evolution. A special chapter is devoted to new or temporary stars, including the incredible "super-novae." Here is interesting and valuable material for both the trained student of astronomy and the layman who is interested in stars.

Author: Paul W. Merrill has taught astronomy at the University of Michigan and been connected with the Lick Observatory and the United States Bureau of Standards. Since 1919 he has been an astronomer in the Mount Wilson Observatory.

Appeal: To students of astronomy and to laymen interested in stars.

CONTENTS: Introductory. The Nature of Stars in General; Varieties of Variable Stars; Discovery and Cataloguing; Light Curves; Physical Properties; New or Temporary Stars; Motions; Variable Stars and the Stellar System.
